Experiment Earth

At the start of the experiment on planet Earth (also referred to as the ultimate game of free choice), it was decided that it was not just about experience but also about growth through the experience.

The conflict of experiencing who you are, within the limitations of the third dimension, has caused many souls to feel completely lost and off track. And indeed there are quite a lot of souls off track. However, a substantial number of souls have managed to raise their awareness and connectivity, as they searched for light and growth. Still wearing the veil they managed to overcome the darkness and fear that is commonly spread around this planet.

This fear and darkness are the last shreds of humanity in third dimension on this planet. All souls are encouraged to increase their vibration, and through changes in their DNA, their true identity will be revealed. Ever thought you were an alien or something else; felt that you were definitely not like everyone else? The chances are you will find out who you are since this feeling and inner knowing cannot be denied much longer.

Changes are in progress. Signs are becoming more apparent though easily mistaken for fatal errors on behalf of mankind. Fear is growing in those who resist change and so the signs of improvement are somewhat overshadowed by temporary outburst of violence and crime.

As is commonly acknowledged in psychology it is best to ignore the violence and to focus on the light and love filling the planet from within. Focus on your own growth and enjoy the little clues on who you are but most of all spread your light and love to whoever is ready to receive.

I know it is hard to not be overwhelmed by all the misery in this world. So do like I do, don't watch the nine o'clock news, flip faster through the pages of magazines and newspapers. Most of all affirm all the good things in life, and like changing the world.....start small but expand rapidly. Start by working on changing you!
